Speaker and Door Prize Highlight Audubon Annual Dinner, April 26

by Bill Brandhorst & Tom Day

The annual dinner of the St. Louis Audubon Society will be held at Agusti's Restaurant, 2300 Edwards St., in St. Louis (on the Hill) on April 26.

The featured speaker for the evening will be Fiona Marshall, associate professor of anthropology at Washington University. She was born in Nairobi, Kenya. Educated in Kenya and England, she received her Ph.D. from the University of California at Berkeley. She came to Washington University in 1987. She has written many papers and has co-authored many of these with her husband, Thomas Pilgrim, a biostatistician at Washington University, who will be with her at the dinner. They are writing a book together.

Professor Marshall has been assigned the job of preserving the 3.2 million-year-old humanoid tracks in Tanzania. She will talk about these and also the early (10,000 years ago) hunters and gatherers in Africa and why and how some became farmers.

Rex Schmidt has donated a print to be given away as a door prize for this evening. The print, an orange and gold sunset scene on a lake, has a velvet matt and is ready for framing. St. Louis Audubon thanks Rex for this lovely donation.

The evening will begin with a cash bar at 6:30 pm, which is an excellent opportunity to meet new people who share your interest in nature as well as to renew old acquaintances. Dinner will be served at 7:30 pm, followed by a brief meeting that will include the election of new board members.

Dinner choices are an assortment plate of Agusti entrees, spumoni, and soft drink/coffee or an alternate vegetarian plate--please indicate your preference on the reservation form. The cost for the dinner is $16 per person. If you have questions, please call Tom Day at 822-9695 (days) or 962-4064 (evenings).

A dinner reservation form is included on page 6. Checks should be made payable to St. Louis Audubon Society. Please send your reservation, to be received no later than April 19, to:

Michael Abbene Donates Computer

Audubon member Michael Abbene of Ballwin has donated a computer system to the St. Louis Audubon Society for use in its Kirkwood office. The system consists of a Compuadd 386-SX computer with monitor, CD Rom with speakers, and desk jet printer.

All the Audubon officers, board of directors, and members are grateful for this generous donation, which will help the organization to enter the "information superhighway."

Board member Jim Malone has donated his time to set up the computer and to determine memory needs for Audubon. Plans include loading up the membership list and adding fields to it for all kinds of information. The board has also approved the purchase of a new office desk with a keyboard platform.

This computer will definitely help St. Louis Audubon to service its members more easily. Thanks again to Michael Abbene for this wonderful donation and to Jim Malone for his expertise.

Attention, All Birders!

by Charlene Malone

All present and future owners of the newly published book BIRDS OF THE ST. LOUIS AREA: Where and When to Find Them, please take notice.

In the section describing the Mark Twain National Wildlife Refuge, page 62 makes reference to an access to Swan Lake by way of Sand Ridge Road (S-6). This is a private road, and the property owners on this road do not wish for others to use it. Please respect their wishes and use other Swan Lake points of access detailed in the book.

Please spread the word to all of your birding friends. Thank you.

From Your President

by Mary Lou Miller

On May 1, 1996, I will be relinquishing the gavel as president of the St. Louis Audubon Society. After serving 3 years as president, I think it's time for a different person with new ideas to take over.

I want to thank all those who have helped me so much with the projects and activities of our society during this time. Without all of you, we would not have succeeded in bringing education, conservation, and information on the natural world to so many people.

It has been a busy time but also fun working with such a diverse group of individuals. Thank you again!

Thanks to . . .

Len Hudgens

LaVerne Koyn

Mary Lou Miller

for their help in painting and unpacking more boxes at the February 25 work day held at the Audubon's Kirkwood office.

Dorothy Mill

who will be helping with the collection of receipts and labels for the Community Club Awards project. We still need another person to work with her; call Mary Lou Miller at H# 389-3969 if you are interested.

The CCA items can be mailed or delivered to:

Membership Drive in Progress

St. Louis Audubon's membership committee met in March to make plans for our membership drive this spring.

We will be receiving lists from the Missouri Department of Conservation and the Department of Natural Resources indicating magazine recipients in the targeted zip code areas. A new brochure will be produced to enclose in the mailing to these people.

If you would like to help with this project, please call Mary Lou Miller, H# 389-3969.

Local Members Meet with NAS on Education

Dianne Johnson, Mary Lou Miller, Sue Smith, and Dave Tylka met with staff from the National Audubon Society on March 28 at the Adams Mark Hotel. The NAS staff was in St. Louis as part of the National Science Teachers' Association Convention from March 28 through March 30 at the Convention Center.

Other chapter officers from Missouri were invited to this meeting, along with Jan Burch, former director to the NAS board for our region; Joyce Wolf, current regional director to the NAS board; Anita Randolph from Jefferson City, Missouri Audubon Council president; and Ron Klataske, vice president of the west central region of the NAS.

This meeting focused on education, highlights of which will be published in the June Tale Feathers.

Resource Center Network Representatives Meet

Rhonda Keller, Chris Serbia, and Karen Turner will represent the St. Louis Audubon Society at a meeting of the Resource Center Network at the Science Center on Wednesday, April 10.

Attendees will view the new Omnimax film, The Serengeti. After a light supper, everyone will give a brief summary of educational activities of the organization he or she represents.

This group meets twice a year, and members represent education departments of their organizations and agencies.

(This is the tenth in a series of articles written about and by St. Louis Audubon board members themselves so that all our membership can be better acquainted with our decision makers on the board.)

I am currently completing 3 years as Vice President of Finance and Chairman of the Investment Committee for the St. Louis Audubon Society. I also serve on the advisory board of the Salvation Army Harbor Light Center.

A member of the St. Louis University faculty since 1976, I am a professor of accounting at the School of Business and Administration. I hold a Ph.D. in accounting from the University of Missouri-Columbia.

My wife of 31 years, Patricia, is retired from teaching in the Parkway School District. We have 2 adult children, James and Peter.

My favorite bird watching is observing water fowl from the cockpit of my Catalina 22 sailboat at Lake Carlyle.

Volunteers Needed for Spring Events

St. Louis Audubon will have a display table at Wings of Spring, a Riverlands environmental fair, to be held on Sunday, April 14, from 10 am to 4 pm. The event will be located at the Lincoln Shields Recreation Area next to Riverlands at the Melvin Price Lock and Dam Area.

If you would like to help, please call Mary Lou Miller (H# 389-3969) or Mary Smith (H# 949-7871).

St. Louis Audubon will have an informational booth at this year's Earth Day Festival, to be held on Saturday and Sunday, April 20 and 21. The event will be celebrated both days in Tower Grove Park and the Missouri Botanical Garden, 10 am to 5 pm. If you would like to help out in the booth, please call Mary Smith (H# 949-7871).

St. Louis Audubon will also be present at a Tiger Cub Day at Beaumont Scout Reservation on Saturday, June 1. These Tigers are 6 and 7 years old; volunteers will try to hold their interest with bird, butterfly, and bug mounts in glass and with other nature items. If you would like to donate some time to this event, please call Mary Smith (H# 949-7871) or Mary Lou Miller (H# 389-3969).

EPA Takes Bashing on Silver Anniversary

by Jim Holsen

In 1948 a poisonous smog left 20 dead and 500 ill in the industrial town of Donora, Pennsylvania, and in 1953 a thermal inversion left 600 dead in New York City. In the early 1960s Rachel Carson's prize-winning book Silent Spring awakened us to the devastating effects that some pesticides, particularly DDT, were having on fish-eating raptors such as eagles and ospreys. By 1970 our waters were so polluted that one river, the Cuyahoga, burst into flames as it flowed through Cleveland.

The first Earth Day, in 1970, dramatized these problems. People wanted answers. Congress, too, demanded solutions. In response, in December 1970, President Nixon established the Environmental Protection Agency by consolidating 15 previously disparate offices into 1 independent agency. Twenty-five years later, the agency is under siege from an anti-environmental, anti-regulatory Congress.

Success Has Left the EPA Vulnerable

Like the IRS, the EPA touches us all--and often in unpleasant ways. It requires us to take our cars in for annual emissions inspections, and it is threatening even more drastic measures if we do not cut our summer ozone levels. Our paints and solvents have been reformulated to remove the volatile organic compounds (VOCs) that cause smog--so that turpentine no longer smells like turpentine and probably costs more. The men in protective clothing around the incinerator at Times Beach are another reminder of the ubiquitous presence of the EPA.

But the problems of gross pollution that plagued us 25 years ago are being solved. Our rivers are cleaner and so is our air.

All opinion polls show that the public overwhelmingly supports strict enforcement of our environmental laws. Surprisingly, the larger chemical industries, represented by the Chemical Manufacturers Association, also support a strong EPA. Referring to the severe cuts in EPA's budget, a recent article in Fortune entitled "Hands Off the EPA" reported that "industries respond to proposed budget cuts for the EPA with support for the agency and preservation of its funding."

Opposition to the EPA comes not from the large chemical corporations, who are able to cope with a government bureaucracy, but from the extractive industries, mining and logging, and from small businesses which may not have the expertise or resources to deal with environmental problems.

Newer Environmental Problems are More Subtle

As the EPA enters its second quarter century, it finds that for many of the newer problems even the science is not well known. And in the case of pesticides and agricultural runoff, the so-called nonpoint source pollution problems, the polluters are not a few large corporations that can be easily contacted, but thousands, or millions, of farmers and small landowners.

In recent years the EPA has been working toward a more flexible performance-based management philosophy. Under the 1990 Pollution Prevention Act, industries are encouraged to develop their own most cost-effective methods to reduce pollutants. Industries find that they can reduce pollution and save energy by utilizing by-products in ways that also reduce costs.

EPA Bears Brunt of Anti-Regulatory Fervor in Congress

An early draft of the House appropriations bill that funds the Veterans Administration (VA), the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), and independent agencies, including the EPA, contained 17 "riders" that curtailed EPA's ability to enforce key provisions of the Clean Water Act, as well as parts of the Superfund, Clean Air Act, and Safe Drinking Water Act. The Senate version contained 11 anti-environmental riders. The bill that finally emerged from a conference committee, and was passed by both the House and the Senate, contained only 5 riders, but it did cut EPA's funding by 21%, while other governmental departments suffered cuts of only about 12%.

This appropriations bill contained 1 other particularly objectionable provision, inserted at the insistence of Senator Kit Bond. That provision takes away from the EPA its right to review wetlands permits issued by the Corps of Engineers--permits granted under the authority of the Clean Water Act which regulates the loss of wetlands. As an operating agency, the Corps should not be sole judge of its own regulatory actions.

President Clinton vetoed this appropriations bill, and the 2 departments and other agencies have since been funded through a series of Continuing Resolutions (CRs), the latest of which expired on March 22. As this is written, Congress is reconsidering the appropriations bill, and the issue of the wetlands permits is a contentious one that will be decided by Congress and the White House. This has been a major issue for the National Audubon Society, which has campaigned to persuade Senator Bond to remove his wetlands rider.

Environmental Lobby Day Planned

by Jim Holsen

The Missouri Coalition for the Environment is organizing an Environmental Lobby Day at the State Capitol in Jefferson City for Wednesday, April 24. St. Louis Audubon is a co-sponsor.

Participants from all parts of Missouri will have an opportunity to be briefed on environmental bills before the state legislature and to discuss those bills with their own and other legislators.

Buses will leave St. Louis at 8:30 am and will return by 7 pm. The cost of $15 includes round-trip bus fare. Bring your lunch or buy your own at the Capitol.

Help to demonstrate support for environmental legislation. Call Carrie Jaeger or Scott Mills at the Coalition, 727-0600, for details.

Meeting for Fourth Annual Butterfly Count

by Susanne Greenlee

A short presentation on the Fourth Annual Butterfly Count for the St. Louis area will be held at Powder Valley Nature Center in Kirkwood on Thursday, May 9, from 7 to 8 pm. This meeting is for people of all ages interested in assisting with the Annual Butterfly Count. We will discuss the what, why, how, and where of the counts near St. Louis.

The 1996 counts will be conducted at Victoria Glade and Valley View Glade in Jefferson County and at Busch Conservation Area. The counts will take place on 3 Saturdays (10 am to 1 pm) at all 3 locations throughout the season:

May 18*

June 22

September 7

* Note that the first count at Valley View Glade is on May 25, not May 18. Other local counts include Powder Valley Nature Center and Cuivre River State Park. These 2 sites may have different count days.

The annual butterfly counts have been conducted at over 10 sites since 1993. The Missouri Department of Conservation, Missouri Department of Natural Resources, National Park Service, The Nature Conservancy, and over 100 volunteers supported the counts.

The information gathered will assist in assessing butterfly distributions, population trends, and the effects of different land management techniques on the community. Butterflies, due to their narrow feeding habits, are excellent indicator species to monitor the health of natural areas.

Please call Susanne Greenlee at The Nature Conservancy (314/968-1105) to sign up for these butterfly counts or to get more information.

An Introductory Field Workshop for Shorebird Identification

Do all shorebirds look alike to you? Do they seem impossible to sort out and identify? Well, you're not alone. A substantial percentage of birders have problems with identifying shorebirds--not even the experts can confidently identify each and every one of them! However, although admittedly difficult and often challenging, most shorebirds can be identified in the field.

The St. Louis Audubon Society announces a special introductory field workshop for shorebird identification to be conducted by Dale Delaney of Delaney EcoTours, Ltd. This workshop is intended to cover the basics of shorebird identification: size, shape, plumage, behavior, calls, etc.

We will be searching for and studying the common shorebirds, which typically migrate through our area each spring. Once you have learned to identify these common birds at the species level, then it becomes much easier for you to undertake such challenges as determining the age and/or race of any given individual. And, of course, the more field experience you have, then the better your chances will be of spotting that occasional anomaly or rarity.

WHEN: 8 am to 3 pm, Saturday, May 4, 1996

WHERE: Meet in the parking lot of the West County Shopping Mall located at I-270 & Manchester Road. (We will assemble at the south end of the parking lot near Penney's at lamp post #1 and then carpool to Riverlands and/or St. Charles County.)

FEE: $10 (All proceeds will be donated to Audubon's education fund.)

Registration will be limited to first 25 people.

In addition to binoculars, the follow items would be helpful to bring along with you:

*spotting scope

*field guide

*picnic lunch

If you have any questions or need more information, please contact Dale Delaney at 230-9675 (daytime) or Mary Lou Miller at 389-3969 (evenings).

AUDUBON ADVENTURES

National Trails Day Celebrated

National Trails Day 1996 will be celebrated in Missouri on Saturday, June 1, at an annual rally at Frontier Park in the City of St. Charles. Greenway Network, Inc. is coordinating the event to increase awareness of the need to protect and develop trails of all kinds. One of the key co-sponsors is the City of St. Charles Parks and Recreation Department.

The American Hiking Society, national sponsor of National Trails Day, promotes Trails for All Americans, an effort to provide trail access within 15 minutes of every American's home or workplace. "Narrow public parks"--trails--promote health and fitness in urban areas where many workers can find convenient, enjoyable, and safe places for bicycling, walking, and jogging.

Studies have shown that trails contribute to economic prosperity and increased property values, as well as regional tourism. Preservation of open space for trails helps to protect natural resources and reduce erosion of land, while simultaneously enabling nearby farming, trade, or home life. Trails help to educate everyone about the value and importance of the natural environment.

Increasing numbers of trails are expected to become an alternative to motorized travel. In the future, more homes, offices, schools, and shopping areas are anticipated to be interconnected by trails as means of achieving and maintaining cleaner air and less traffic congestion.

Support for continuing improvement of both the local and national trails systems can begin by participating in a National Trails Day observance near you. Volunteers to help supervise activities for the St. Charles event are needed. For more information, contact Greenway Network, Inc. at 947-0772 (FAX# 947-0778). Mailing address is

Do You Just Belong?

Are you an active member,
The kind that would be missed?
Or are you just contented
That your name is on the list?

Do you attend the meetings
And mingle with the flock?
Or do you like to stay at home,
Then criticize, and knock?

Do you take an active part
To help the work along?
Are you satisfied to be
The kind that just belongs?

Do you work on the committees
To see there is no trick?
Or leave the work to just a few
And talk about the clique?

Come to meetings often
And help with hand and heart.
Don't be "just a member . . ."
Please, take an active part!

Really think this over.
You know right from wrong.
Are YOU an active member?
Or do you just belong?

INTERNATIONAL MIGRATORY BIRD CELEBRATION

May 4-12, 1996

The following is a listing of the special events that are happening around the St. Louis area in conjunction with International Migratory Bird Week. Most of the programs listed require reservations. To obtain more information on a specific program or to make reservations, please refer to the listing of organizations on the back side of this brochure or below. All programs listed are free of charge except the Introductory Field Workshop for Shorebird Identification on Saturday, May 4.

SATURDAY, MAY 4

8 a.m. - 3 p.m.

INTRODUCTORY FIELD WORKSHOP FOR SHOREBIRD IDENTIFICATION

ST. LOUIS AUDUBON

Conducted by Dale Delaney of Delaney EcoTours, Ltd., this workshop is intended to cover the basics of shorebird identification: size, shape, plumage, behavior calls, etc. We will be searching for and studying the common shorebirds, which typically migrate through our area each spring. Group will meet in the West County Shopping Mall parking lot and carpool to Riverlands and/or St. Charles County. $10 fee--reservations limited to first 25 people. For registration form and more information, call Mary Lou Miller at 389-3969 (evenings and weekends).

SUNDAY, MAY 5

8 a.m.

BIRDING IN KENNEDY WOODS

ST. LOUIS AUDUBON

Walk to look for spring migrants in Kennedy Woods, Forest Park. Meet behind the Art Museum near the woods. Bring binoculars and field guide. Several leaders will be available--help provided for beginners. No reservations required; call Paul Bauer at 921-3972 for more information. Ages 10 and up and adults welcome.

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY, MAY 7 & 8

8 a.m. - 9:30 a.m.

EARLY MORNING BIRD WALKS

POWDER VALLEY
NATURE CENTER

A fresh morning look at common birds that visit our urban St. Louis area. Please bring a pair of binoculars and your favorite birding handbook if you can. Reservations are required and will be taken beginning May 1. Call 821-8427 after 8 a.m. Adults only.

SATURDAY, MAY 11

7:45 a.m. - 10 a.m.

BIRD WALK AT LONE ELK PARK

WILD BIRD CENTER/
CRESTWOOD

We will meet at the Wild Bird Center, 9815 Watson Rd., Crestwood, at 7:45 a.m. Group will carpool to Lone Elk Park, visit several locations, and return to the Wild Bird Center by 10 a.m. For reservations, call the Wild Bird Center at 822-9695. All birders, especially beginners, welcome.

8 a.m. - 9:30 a.m.
